

Save Steve's Place

Support for the Fight

The fight to protect the Steve Irwin Wildlife Reserve has gained strong support from celebrities and friends of Australia Zoo.

- Terri, Bindi and Robert Irwin signed the petition on Australia Day in the Crocoseum, raising awareness of their fight and encouraging everyone to join with them. Bindi (pictured right signing the petition) encouraged all children to make their votes count and sign the petition as well.
- Olivia Newton-John is an international singer and actress, and a great friend and supporter of Australia Zoo. Olivia signed the petition, and recorded a message to raise awareness and encourage others to also join the fight to Save Steve's Place.
- The Veronicas are international singing sisters, who top the charts with their hits. Lisa and Jess are also Wildlife Warriors ambassadors, and are supporting the fight to Save Steve's Place. They have recorded a message encouraging others to also sign the petition.
- The Australian Swim Team visited Australia Zoo during a break from their training camp, and signed the petition to Save Steve's Place. Gold medal-winning swimmer Stephanie Rice was among the group, who then recorded a message to encourage others to get behind the fight and sign the petition as well.
- The Crocmen help to spread the message of conservation. Steve Irwin created the team of Wildlife Warriors – known as The Crocmen – who are committed to encouraging children around the world to protect and enhance the natural environment and all wildlife species.
- Dr Eve Fesl is the Elder of the Gubbi Gubbi. Steve Irwin always had a great respect for the land and its traditional owners. On behalf of the Gubbi Gubbi people who land includes the Glasshouse Mountains, joined the fight to Save Steve's Place by signing the petition at Australia Zoo.

-more-

Save Steve's Place

-2-

- John Williamson is an Australian icon with a career spanning over 40 years and countless iconic Australian hit songs. John is a good friend of Australia Zoo's, sharing his passion for the conservation of wildlife. John is also a Wildlife Warriors ambassador, and joined the fight to Save Steve's Place by signing the petition following his performance at Australia Zoo on Australia Day.
- Warren H. Williams is fast becoming one of Australia's favourite country music singer/songwriters; having performed around Australia and New Zealand, and touring with John Williamson.
- Jamie Dunn is an Australian media identity, well-known for his alter-ego, Agro. Jamie has recently moved back to Brisbane radio, and has been a great friend and supporter of Australia Zoo for many years.

Above (l-r): Wes Mannion, The Crocmen, Terri, Robert and Bindi Irwin, John Williamson, Jamie Dunn with Agro, Dr Eve Fesl, Warren H. Williams, Shane Hancock and the Palm Cockatoo.

- David Claudie is a Kaanju traditional owner and Chuulangun Aboriginal Corporation Chairman. The homelands of the Kaanju people lie along the Wenlock, Pascoe, Archer and Lockhart River systems in Central Cape York in Queensland, making David a neighbour of the Steve Irwin Wildlife Reserve.

-more-

Save Steve's Place

-3-

- Liz Cantor is a true Queenslander who loves the outdoors, especially the ocean. When she isn't working for Channel Seven's Creek to Coast, the Great South East, or presenting the Channel Seven beach report, Liz loves to escape for a weekend of camping and surfing.
- Sally Jenyns is one of those fortunate people whose career has enabled her to follow her three great loves of fishing, cooking and travel. Sally is a presenter on Channel Seven's Creek to Coast.
- David Tree became a wildlife hero after rescuing Sam the Koala in the Victorian bushfires earlier this year. David brought worldwide attention to the wildlife suffering in the bushfires. David is a volunteer firefighter and a true wildlife warrior; since the fires David has helped raise thousands of dollars for wildlife conservation causes.

Above (l-r): Liz Cantor, David Claudie, Terri, Bindi and Robert Irwin, Sally Jenyns and David Tree.

-ENDS-

For more information about the Steve Irwin Wildlife Reserve and the fight to Save Steve's Place, contact:

Phone: +61 7 5436 2000

Email: info@australiazoo.com.au

Website: www.savestevesplace.com/